

COMPLAINT FORM

INFORMATION - FOR MAKING A COMPLAINT ABOUT A MEMBER OF THE AICSA

Members of the AICSA must comply with a range of professional and legislative requirements, including the AICSA Code of Conduct.

In the event that you feel that a Member has breached their requirements, and you have attempted to solve the issue with the Member, you may lodge a formal complaint. The AICSA views complaints seriously and therefore welcomes accurate information.

To ascertain if the person in your complaint is a Member of the AICSA email assist@aicsa.com.au

The AICSA is unable to investigate a complaint for a matter that occurred more than five years prior to the date of the complaint or a complaint that is unsupported on available evidence.

Please note that the AICSA is not in a position to offer a remedy to you as the complaint process cannot award damages or restitution of property. It is strictly limited to disciplining of a Member.

The AICSA must not be used as an influence against the Member to achieve a result not readily forthcoming because you do not desire to use more appropriate modes of action, such as court process or where relevant, a regulatory authority.

To assist in the preparation of your complaint please note the following:

Fee Disputes

Conveyancing fees are unregulated. The AICSA will not become involved in matters primarily concerning a fee dispute between a client and Member. Fees are a commercial matter and the AICSA does not recommend any fee scale.

Complaint Process

The AICSA will only accept a signed written complaint where the identity of the complainant is known. The AICSA does not accept anonymous complaints.

Generally, a complaint will not be accepted unless you provide all the information requested including documentation in support of the complaint.

The AICSA will acknowledge your written complaint and advise you of further procedures.

Your complaint form and attachments will be sent to the Member for comment. Please note that if the complaint is deemed unviable, it will be sent to the Member in accordance with the AICSA By-Laws. If you submit a complaint and you withdraw it before it is submitted to the Member, the Member will not be notified.

The time taken to investigate a complaint varies from case to case and will depend on a number of factors including response times, the complexity of the matter and any relevant legal issues.

You will be notified in writing of the outcome of your complaint.

If you require further information on the complaints process please refer to our website: www.aicsa.com.au
